Dear Judy,

I wanted to extend my sincere gratitude for inviting our freshmen to attend the Music Unites Us program last Friday. The two artists, Mr. Azmeh and Mr. Younes, captivated well over 300 of freshmen in two separate, yet equally impressive performances. Their creativity was inspiring and their message was powerful.

I have been fortunate to have seen a number of performances over the years through the Music Unites Us program and, for me, this particular one was the most meaningful. I applaud you for being able to find artists that are capable of presenting the current struggles of the Syrian people in such an enigmatic and poignant way.

I personally appreciate how you continue to provide a wonderful connection between Brandeis University and the students at Waltham High School. Being a lifelong Walthamite and educator for over a dozen years here in Waltham I think the relationship that you have helped to forge with our History and Social Studies department is great example of the kind of connections that are made in our community on a regular basis and help to make Waltham such a special place.

I look forward to continuing to work with you and the Music Unites Us program for years to come and I am excited to see what performances we can look forward to in the future. Thanks again for letting the students of Waltham High School be part of the Music Unites Us community.

Thanks,

Tim McMahan
